The content and composition of this book suggest an intellectual debt is owed to many people.

Governor Marion Williams diligently read and commented on the entire document. Mr. Kevin Greenidge had the tedious job of checking the book for internal consistency and he did this with unfailing pleasantness.

Early drafts of individual chapters were read and commented on by various persons including Sir Courtney Blackman (the first Governor of the Bank), Professor Michael Howard (University of the West Indies and a current Director of the Bank), Professor Andrew Downes (Sir Arthur Lewis Institute of Social and Economic Studies and a former Director of the Bank), Dr. DeLisle Worrell (International Monetary Fund and a former Deputy Governor of the Bank), Dr. Alvin Hilaire and Dr. Wendell Samuels (International Monetary Fund), Dr. Patrick Kendall (Caribbean Development Bank), Mr. Sam Chandler (Ministry of Foreign Trade), Mr. DeCoursey Eversley (Ministry of Labour) and Mr. Robert Morris (Barbados Workers' Union). Last, but by no means least, Mrs. Sonia Mayers, Secretary 1, Research Department, Central Bank of Barbados, had the unenviable tasks of typing and collating the publication. Thanks to all of them for their time and effort.
